

TRIALS FOR DATA SHARING

Clinical Data Sharing with Researchers

Grünenthal will share patient- and trial-level data from clinical trials with suitably qualified scientific and medical researchers as necessary for conducting legitimate research.

Patient-level data refers to information on individual patients collected during clinical trials.

Trial-level data refers to clinical reports or parts of clinical reports (as defined in EMA/240810/2013) and/or trial-level data sets.

Requests for clinical data sharing will be accepted for interventional clinical trials which meet all of the following criteria:

- Were conducted in patients.
- Were sponsored by Grünenthal.
- Had first protocol approval after 15 July 2014.
- Were submitted as part of a successful application to the United States Food and Drug Administration, the European Medicines Agency, or a national competent authority of a European Union Member States, for a marketing approval or variation or extension.

List of Accessible Trials for Data Sharing:

- Currently there are no Clinical Trials available for Data Sharing

Contact:

Grünenthal GmbH, 52099 Aachen, Germany,
www.grunenthal.com, ClinicalTrialPortal@grunenthal.com.